The Legend of Mountain Mike

Abandoned in the mountains, four days after his birth, a baby boy was discovered, wrapped in a blanket along the banks of the American River by a nomadic family of Italian pizza makers. "Look atta beautiful bambino" said Chef Luigi, as he cuddled the hungry baby in his flour-caked hands. "Dis is a sign-a from da heavens. Dis-a boy-a shall be-a my son!"

Over the years, the great Chef Luigi taught his newfound son everything he knew about making pizza. He taught him about the importance of fresh vegetables, perfect handmade dough, and ancient family sauce secrets. "Pizza is-a not a snack-a."

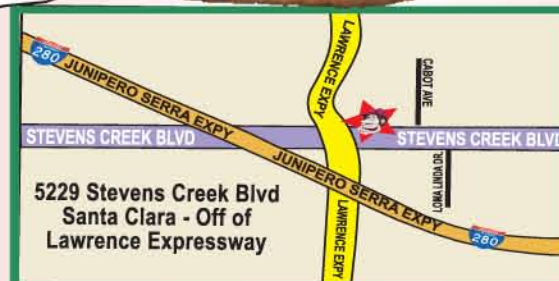

Chef Luigi told his young apprentice. "Pizza is-a meal!" The young apprentice took his father's words to heart. His pizzas grew larger, his toppings higher. One single pizza could suddenly feed an entire family. And when the villagers became hungry, he would whip up a special pizza.

A pizza as big as the mountains in which, they lived - to feed them ALL!

So, in that tiny village in the high alpine meadow, with his mountain size pizza and toppings stretching to the moon, a legend was born. "A genius" his father called him. "A true pizza artist!" The boy's name? Michelangelo, of Mountain Michelangelo.

Our PIZZA, like the mountains Mike hails from, are big beyond belief. There is nothing phony about our mountain way of live and there is nothing phony about our great tasting pizzas. From our fresh vegetables and gooey, rich cheese, to our thick, sturdy, handmade crusts! And while our pizzas may be a work of art, we're just a little too casual around here for anyone to refer to us as "Mountain Michelangelo's" So settle into your booth, kick your feet up and make yourself at home. We hope you're real hungry, 'cause there's a mountain of pizzas heading your way.
